

We need to make a basic calculator using PHP.

The user goes to a calculate.php page that contains a form:

- Two number inputs x and y
- Select input for operation (options: add, sub, multi & div)
- Submit button

When the user submits the form, the actual calculation happens in handle-calculate.php

Then the result is sent back again to the calculate.php page to be displayed in a div under the form.

Notes:

1- What is the suitable request method for this app: GET or POST?

Write your answer in a comment above the form.